The Quakers lived in Newberry, South Carolina, during the Revolutionary War era and into the early 1800s when they began moving westward. The Historic Bush River Cemetery was part of their Meeting House property and was the final resting place of hundreds of their members. This completely indexed history of the Cemetery and many of its families includes photographs of all of the existing monuments and a map of tombstone locations. All book sale proceeds will go to the Quaker Cemetery Clean Up Fund for the monthly maintenance of the Bush River Cemetery. Because of this work, the Cemetery is now accessible every day of the year. (Orders to: Judith F. Russell, 1151 Fairway Gardens NE, Brookhaven, GA 30319.
